Course in Highbrow Literature. After trying to read the problem tales his highbrow wife delights in, an Atchison man now begins at the back of a volume and reads straight through to the front. After finding out what happened in the end he says he realizes what the author is driving at in early chapters, and he can now read a Bernard Shaw, Ibsen or Maeterlinck story almost as understandingly as a baseball score.—Atchison (Kans.) ### LARGE CROWD SEES PLAY GIVEN BY JUNIORS CLASS

Leading Part is Well Taken By Miss Emmie Chandler of This County.

The play given by the Junior Class Friday evening was well attended and apparently met with the favor of the large audience.

It was conspicuous among college plays because of the elaborate staging; the second act was especially beautiful and gave evidence of abundant energy and ingenuity, in representing with such fidelity an outdoor scene.

Of the acting little need be said since most of the principal parts were taken by girls already well and favorably known to college audiences. Miss Emmie Chandler was a sweet and pretty heroine and displayed considerable dramatic ability. Miss Zaida Musselwhite gave an extremely creditable rendering of the principal masculine character. It is but fair to say that Miss Musselwhite entered the play only a few days ago, pressed into service to fill the vacancy caused by the illness of Katherine Cox.

Each member of the large cast contributed to the evening's enjoyment and received a due share of interest and applause.

An agreeable feature was the singing of Misses Imogene Therrill and Tom Jones Gideon, who pleasantly bequiled the time between acts.

Other young ladies who were in the play and who took their parts well were Misses Lucile Symons, Evelyn Pyle, Mildred Boyd, Nancy Jackson, Lexie Lewis, Nina Bell, Louise Wheeler, Luna Austin, Maud Hailes, Raiford Rush, Marie Smith, Louise Baker, Lillian Frazier, Grace Massengale, Erlene Parker, Josie Stewart and Henrietta Baker.

The play was coached by Miss Mary L. Savage, and Miss Evelyn Kendrick acted as business manager. Those who assisted in arranging for the play were Misses Lillian Huff and Lottie Gresham.

Nightmare. Nightmare is a peculiar form of bad dreams considered worthy of special name, being usually accompanied by a sense of extreme nervousness or discomfort, like a weight on the chest or stomach, with imagined impossibility of motion or speech and other distressing feelings. It is due to disturbed circulation in the chest or in the brain, which, in turn, is due to imprudent eating of late or hearty suppers.
